

Getting Started

What are Announcement Feeds?

We created Announcement Feeds to help Jira Software and Service Management administrators manage information flow and updates via announcements, which can be organized into so-called 'feeds'.

Our app is a step forward which you're looking for as a tool to create quick messages, organize them in feeds displayed on different screens and precisely target your information to users instead of spamming them with static banners.

Our app gives you full control over which group of users you'll send announcements to.

Do I have access to any stats?

Sure! We give you full access to statistics - you know if everyone responded to the announcement, if the user responded to all the announcements and who is behind with answers.

Everything stays under your control!
